

Table of contents

Prolog. An anthropological look at the attractiveness and expressiveness of the face

Part 1. CLINICAL APPLICATIONS

1. Botulinum toxin and its application in clinical medicine
2. Botulinum toxin: pharmacology, immunology and the latest developments
3. Pharmacology and immunology of botulinum toxins without protein complexes
4. Topical botulinum toxin
5. Various botulinum toxins and their clinical application in western countries
6. Botulinum toxins available in clinical treatment worldwide
7. Botulinum toxin for cosmetic use in combination with other injectable substances and items
8. Beyond the Obvious: Optimizing Beauty with Botulinum Toxin
9. Botulinum toxin in the treatment of localized hyperhidrosis
10. Botulinum toxin type A in the treatment of depression, Raynaud's phenomenon and other new dermatological indications
11. Medico-legal aspects of cosmetic treatment with botulinum toxin injections

Part 2. FUNCTIONAL ANATOMY AND INJECTION TECHNIQUES

12. Facial functional anatomy, beauty proportions, neuromodulation
13. Cosmetic applications of botulinum toxin type A in the upper range
14. Cosmetic application of botulinum toxin type A in the center of the face
15. Cosmetic uses of botulinum toxin type A on the lower face, neck and upper chest
16. Application of botulinum toxin in the chest area
17. The use of botulinum toxin in Asians

Appendix 1. Comparison of different recommendations for botulinum toxin dosage in Western countries

Appendix 2. Facial muscles

Appendix 3. Preparation, storage and handling of OnaBTX-A and injection

Appendix 4. Patient treatment protocol

Appendix 5. Declaration of consent for the treatment of facial and body wrinkles with botulinum toxin

Appendix 6. Side effects and contraindications to the use of botulinum toxin injections